DRIVERS CROWD HIGHWAYS; 12 ARE ARRESTED

Majority Pay Fines On Reckless Operation Charges

TWO INJURED IN ROUTE 164 CRASH

Wilkinsburg Motorist hits Hay Wagon, Without Lights

With the mercury climbing and the roads clearing, motorists took to the highways over the weekend as increased numbers and, before the dust had settled today, 12 of them had been pulled off the roads, at least temporarily, by the Salem state highway patrol, largely on charges of reckless operation.

Accidents, however, were kept to a minimum, only two being reported in investigations by the patrol.

Both occurred in a collision at 8:45 p. m. Saturday on Route 164, between Columbiana and Lisbon, of cars operated by William Hallows of Columbiana R. D. and Paul Glaser of Columbiana.

Passes Stop Sign
Halloway, patrolman said, failed to obey a stop sign and his car hit the side of the Glaser car.

Mrs. Halloway and Mary McDevitt, the latter in the Glaser car, were injured, although not seriously.

A hay wagon figured in a collision at 6:10 p. m. Sunday on Route 154, just east of Negley. The wagon was driven by O. R. Shaw of Negley R. D. 1 and the car by Howard Miller of Wilkinsburg, Pa.

The wagon, according to the patrol, was on the highway without lights. The accident occurred on a curve and the lights of a car coming from the opposite direction temporarily "blacked out" the wagon as far as the driver of the Wilkinsburg car was concerned. No one was hurt.

Cars driven by Clarence Pemberton of R. D. 1 Salem and Joseph Dixon of Alliance collided on Route 62 three miles west of Salem at 9:25 p. m. Sunday. The accident occurred as Pemberton made a left turn off the highway into a driveway. No one was injured.

The Arrest List

Those arrested, the charges and the fines are:

Cecil K. McCormick, Lisbon, reckless operation; $10 and costs by Justice M. K. Zimmerman, Lisbon.

Richard A. Prigg, Aliquippa, Pa., reckless; $10 and costs by Mayor Arthur R. Myers, Columbiana.

Robert E. Marks, Lisbon, permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car; $5 and costs by Justice C. E. Albright, Lisbon.

Clifford C. Rose, Youngstown, reckless; to appear today before Mayor Norman Phillips.

LISBON FARM LEADERS NAMED

Bert Davis, Wayne Township Chosen Institute President

LISBON, Dec. 9.—The annual Lisbon Farmers Institute closed here Saturday afternoon with the election of officers.

Bert Davis of Wayne Township grange was elected president of the institute, sponsored by Wayne, Elkrum, Yellow Creek, West Point, Midway and Lisbon granges, succeeding County Recorder Richard O. Wilson of West Point grange.

Mrs. Harley Kelch of Lisbon grange was elected vice president, succeeding Dean Forbes, of Yellow Creek; Mrs. Byron Angmyer of Elkrum grange succeeds Miss Helen Davis of Wayne Township grange as secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Lisbon grange succeeds Mrs. Byron Angmyer.

A record crowd of 400 attended the closing session of the two-day institute at which Mrs. D. B. Phillips of Mt. Washington and Don Ward of Union City, Ind., were the state speakers. Miss Zada Farmer of Fairfield township, also appeared on the program reciting her experience as a delegate of Columbiana county and the state at the national 4-H Club congress in Chicago recently.

Specialists Will Study County Cases

Ralph Mullen, clerk of the Columbiana county division of aid for the blind, has been invited to appear before a meeting of 50 leading eye specialists of the Cleveland Clinic at the institution Tuesday afternoon, becoming the first person other than a doctor to be called before the group.

The invitation was issued by Dr. Ruedemann of the clinic staff, who has asked Mullen to bring with him three county cases for doctors to examine and determine the results of treatment.

Two of the cases Mullen will take have been cured and the third is in the process of being cured by a neurological treatment. Mullen will explain the county plan where by the work is done. The division official explains that in the last four years 50 cases have been treated at the Cleveland hospital, where cures have been effected in all but two cases.

Mother Under Guard After Bodies Found

PRINCETON, Ill., Dec. 9.—A 33-year-old mother found by her husband standing in three feet of water in a 13-foot cistern shortly after he had discovered the bodies of their two babies in their farm home, was under a sheriff's guard in a hospital today.

State's Attorney Joseph R. Peterson of Bureau county who ordered the guard, said he would question the mother, Mrs. Agnes Borg, to seek some clue to the shotgun slayings of her daughter, Rachael Elaine, 3½, and her six-months-old son, Martin Theodore.

Table Decoration

MONTEVIDEO, Minn.—Army blankets took the place of table linen and a steel helmet and canteens served as a centerpiece when national guardsmen here held their annual dinner, the last gathering before they go into training in January.

Girls Band to Play For Ohio Grangers

The Mahoning county All-Girls band, organized by Goshen and Greenford grangers, will appear on the program Tuesday night at the Ohio State grange convention in Cleveland, it was announced today by Mrs. J. S. Hollinger, president of the band group.

Invitation for the girls to play was issued by Walter Kirk, state grange master.

The band will play either directly after National Grange Master L. J. Taber's talk or just before the exemplification of the sixth degree.

Mrs. D. R. McConnell, secretary-treasurer of the band group, is attending the convention in her capacity of chairman of the home economics committee of the state grange. She will be in charge of the pie contest, in which entries will be submitted by grange bakers throughout the state.

A bus will be chartered to take the girls' band to Cleveland. To raise funds for the trip, the grange will sponsor a supper Monday, Dec. 16.

Damaged British Cruiser Prepares To Re-enter Battle

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 9.—While other British warships were reported searching the south Atlantic today for the German raider whose shells punctured the Carnarvon Castle's steel hull, the damaged British auxiliary cruiser prepared to get back into the fight for control of Britain's vital food lines by tomorrow night.

Some of the Carnarvon Castle's crewmen were sure other British ships already had caught up with the Nazi raider but so far, at least, there were only unconfirmed reports of a new sea battle.

These assertions were based on reports that the German fighter came out of the 90-minute battle Thursday even worse damaged than the Carnarvon Castle and that the 7,580-ton cruiser Enterprise and another British warship nearby immediately took up the chase.

Search Organized For Missing Fliers

FINGAL, Ontario, Dec. 9.—A search was organized today for three Royal Canadian Air Force fliers who disappeared in a Fairey battle bomber during a routine flight over Lake Erie yesterday.

The missing men: Flying Officer L. A. Hood, a native of St. Joseph, Mo., whose next of kin reside in Adrian, Mich.; Aircraftman E. W. Bourne of Oshawa, Ont., and Aircraftman John Henry McNally of Minaki, Ont.

The bomber, towing a target for gunnery practice for another plane, turned into a bank of clouds at a height of about 1,000 to 1,500 feet and was not seen again.

OHIO FARMER INCOME GAINS

State Grange Chief Optimistic On Eve of Convention

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 9.—Walter F. Kirk, master of the Ohio State grange which convenes here tonight, reports Ohio farmers are in better condition economically than the average throughout America.

Total farm income in the state this year probably will be slightly higher than in 1939, he said.

Continued expansion of industrial employment will assist in reducing farm surpluses, Kirk asserted, pointing out that Ohio farmers had easy access to industrial markets and were in favorable position for shipment of agricultural products.

He warned, however, that a continued rise in commodity prices would result in higher costs for farm machinery and necessities.

Kirk, a resident of Port Clinton, has been master of the Ohio grange for 12 years. He reported its present membership totals nearly 90,000. This will be its 68th annual convention.

Conservation problems will be discussed tomorrow. L. J. Taber of Columbus, National Grange master, will speak tomorrow night.

Cooperatives and other grange problems are scheduled for discussion Wednesday. The annual banquet Wednesday night is to be addressed by Gov. John W. Bricker and Dr. Frank Stutz, Dayton educator.

The convention will close Thursday with installation of officers.

Hit Farm Bureau

BATIMORE, Dec. 9.—The American Farm Bureau federation studied a report by its research staff today that the New Deal, through operation of its multi-million dollar farmer-aid programs, had built up large official staffs that threatened to place agriculture under "costly bureaucratic control."

The report was prepared under direction of W. R. Ogg, the farm organization's Washington representative and research director. It

THREE DEPUTIES APPOINTED BY SHERIFF-ELECT

W. A. Shasteen of E. Palestine, Is Named Office Aid

TWO PATROLMEN GET FIELD JOBS

Frank Springer Selects James Elliott As His Assistant

Sheriff-elect George Hayes today announced the appointment of an office deputy and two field deputies who will qualify and take office with him at 12:01 a. m., Monday, Jan. 6, 1941.

The remainder of the force will be completed, Hayes said, before the first of the year, with the appointment of possibly three other deputies.

Appointments made public at this time include: William A. Shasteen, former mayor of East Palestine, as office deputy; Charles Patterson, Lisbon patrolman, and Thomas Russell, former East Liverpool patrolman, as field deputies.

Former Merchant

Shasteen, who has been a resident of East Palestine since 1909, is a former merchant of that city. He is now engaged in general insurance business. He is a member of the Masonic lodge, and is secretary of the East Palestine Kiwanis club, a position he has held for 14 years. Patterson was born and reared on a farm in Wayne township, which he operated successfully until 13 years ago when he sold out and located in Lisbon. He held a position with the R. Thomas & Sons Co., in Lisbon prior to accepting a position as day patrolman here nine years ago.

Russell served the City of East Liverpool as a patrolman for 12 years, but for the last three years has been employed in the water works department there.

Sheriff Hayes said his office will be operated upon a greatly curtailed budget.

Springer Names Assistant

Frank Springer, prosecutor-elect, today announced appointment of James Elliott of Lisbon as assistant prosecutor, who will take office when Springer assumes his duties Jan. 6.

Miss Lillian Gray of East Liverpool, Springfield announced, will be his stenographer, and secretary.

Elliott, a graduate of the Ohio State law school, was associated with the legal department of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., before opening law offices in Lisbon two years ago.

Bomb Crates, Paint Destroyed By Fire

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 9.—Three-hundred bomb crates built for the government and 1600 gallons of paint were lost today when fire destroyed the paint department building of the Oliver Farm Equipment company.

Company officials estimated the total loss at $15,000 but were unable immediately to ascertain the cause of the fire.

Firemen, handicapped when their chemical foam was exhausted, fought the flames for two hours.

While Bombs Fall on London

When the air raid sirens scream in London, the only difference it makes to the heroines in the city's telephone exchanges is that they don their steel hats. Note the gas masks hanging near by. Often, they must vary their stock phrases with: "Sorry, sir, that number was bombed out last night."

Army Physicians Reject Many That Local Boards Pass

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Doctors at army induction centers have rejected 10 to 25 per cent of the prospective soldiers passed by physicians for the local draft boards, authoritative sources disclosed today.

Officials at selective service headquarters declared that this showing was no cause for alarm. The whole business was new to most of the local examiners, they said, and the percentage of rejections by army doctors could be expected to fall between 5 and 10 per cent eventually.

The officials took advantage of a lull in inductions, however, to assert that:

1. Men passed by the local medical examiners should not quit their jobs immediately. Instead they should ask and be granted leaves from their work until they have passed the exams at induction centers.

2. The doctors for the local boards, who are donating their services to the country, must become more familiar with regulations and interpretations.

One of the reasons assigned for the high percentage of rejections at induction centers was the fact that local boards and examiners had sent along eager volunteers whose patriotism they were reluctant to discourage.

Another was that local physicians had taken for granted, in some instances, the soundness of men they had known since childhood.

Army doctors, on the other hand, are "leaning over backward" to get perfect men for trainees.

Greeks Cheer FDR's Promise to Give Aid

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 9.—President Roosevelt's promise to give help to Greece was received with enthusiasm here today and a government spokesman received American correspondents especially to convey the thanks of the Greek people.

The press also applauded. Eleftheron Vima said "Mr. Roosevelt's message is causing joy through the entire Greek nation as showing the extent of friendship and mutual assistance existing between our country and his great nation."

Several papers printed large photographs of Roosevelt.

ENGLISH TAKE 500 PRISONERS, CAIRO REPORTS

Two Armies Make Contact On "Broad Front", Dispatches Say

ADVANCE FORCES REPORTED ACTIVE

British Now Say They're Ready for Any Fascist Offense

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 9.—British forces have made contact with the Italians "on a broad front" in the western Egyptian desert and have taken 500 prisoners in an engagement south of Sidi Barrani, the British Africa command declared today.

The action was described as between British "advance elements" and the Italians.

Th's front has long been dormant, with the British apparently content to prevent the Italians from driving further into Egypt from Sidi Barrani, 70 miles inside the western frontier.

The British "advance elements" and the Italians.

Little Progress, Lately

The Italians, under Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, drove across the Libyan-Egyptian frontier early in the Italian-British conflict, and marched along the coast to Sidi Barrani with little opposition. From there they have made little important progress for the last three months.

British authorities declare they are ready for any Fascist offensive in Egypt if that is what Premier Mussolini's changes in the Italian high command mean. (The communiqué did not indicate which side was on the offensive, British or Italian.)

So far apparently, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani has been reluctant to risk an offensive, with the necessity of moving supplies, especially water—over poor road communications, against Britain's well-organized transport system, including a railroad to their front lines.

Lack Striking Power

Although overwhelmingly superior to the British manpower and material, foreign observers say, the first months of the war in the Mediterranean have shown Italy lacking any striking power like Germany's.

Had Mussolini struck at the time of the French collapse he might have had easier going, in their view. But now, they say, his holding back has enabled Britain to increase her strength greatly.

Occupation of the 70-mile strip into Egypt has been Italy's main achievement in North Africa so far. They are said to have moved six divisions into the area, built roads, a water supply system and supply bases.

R. A. F. Starts Fire In Bordeaux Port, Other Targets Hit

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A great fire was started by British night air raiders among buildings between two of the dock basins in the German-held French port of Bordeaux, the air ministry news service said today.

This was part of farflung British air attacks last night in which, the air ministry said, RAF bombers raided industrial and military targets in the Duesseldorf area of Germany, the submarine base at the French Atlantic port of Lorient, the harbor of Bordeaux, Brest, Flushing, Dunkerque and Gravlines and "several enemy airdromes."

A bulletin amplifying the communiqué said Bordeaux was "heavily attacked" by planes of the coastal command and the raids on Brest and Lorient were the second within 24 hours.

PUBLIC POLICY ON FOREIGN LOANS

John Smith and wife, U. S. taxpayers, aren't going to be called to Washington to help the Roosevelt administration decide what to do about lending more money to Europe. The Smiths do have their opinions, however, and their opinions are going to be consulted by government officials if for no other reason than the fact the officials ultimately must stand for reelection on their record. In a number of ways, chiefly by sending aloft trial balloons, the officials are trying to find out what the Smiths and their neighbors think about foreign loans.

Two things govern their opinion—an immediate and a remote fact. The immediate fact is Great Britain's need for all the assistance it can get, a need that isn't made less urgent by academic quibbles over the amount of British financial reserves in the United States and elsewhere. If Americans want Great Britain to save itself, on the assumption that they, themselves, can't afford to let Germany win the war, certainly they can't argue at the same time that no financial assistance should be given until and unless Great Britain first has exhausted itself. That is no way to win a war. Stated this way, assisting Britain is a question of winning or losing the war.

The remote fact is concerned only with the matter of money. Americans are still acutely conscious of the fact they are carrying the financial burden of most of the credit advanced to Great Britain in the first World war. During the post-war years, as Britain and other war debtors confessed they could not or would not pay their war debts, American public opinion crystallized against further advances of credit to governments already insolvent; the crystallization took the form of the Johnson act forbidding purchase and sale in the United States of securities of any country in default on its debt to the United States. Until recently, this act and the neutrality act forbidding sale or purchase "by any person" in the United States of any new securities of any belligerent government comprised public policy on foreign loans in wartime.

An attempt is now in motion to revise this policy. It is apparent in British appeals for financial help and declarations by United States officials like Commerce Secretary Jones and Treasury Secretary Morgenthau that Great Britain is a "good risk." Somehow or other, the existing policy governing loans to a debtor in default is going to be changed.

It will be a ticklish political operation unless the public is taken into official confidence. There will be suspicion of things unseen and tricks up the sleeve. The Roosevelt administration should not forget the experiences of the Wilson administration in kidding both itself and the public about war loans.

In a word, the Roosevelt administration's one chance of crystallizing a new popular opinion about financial assistance to Great Britain is to call a spade, under the circumstances, the word "loan" does not ring true; it cannot ring true. What is proposed had better be called a donation from the outset, because that's what it necessarily would be. Instead of being an investment in Great Britain, to be paid back with interest, it would be an investment in the security of the United States, no better or no worse than the bulk of the loans made in World War I, no better or no worse than the kind of investment made under the New Deal in public projects—money vowed to the people. Public policy on foreign "loans," insofar as it has taken form so far, is to face the fact the "loans" aren't going to be paid back, barring a miracle, and proceeding from that basic point of realism.

PHYSICAL FITNESS OF DRAFTEES

The impression that this country's young men are physically below former standards must be challenged both on faith and evidence. Faith rejects the implication that the United States is a physically declining nation; the evidence shows the contrary to be true.

The Statistical Bulletin of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., commenting on the physical fitness of draftees, points out that the high rate of rejections of recent volunteers for the army and navy is not indicative of the physical status of our young men. Applicants are not representative of America's youth, medical standards are higher than they were in the past, and the impairments found either are minor or remediable. The Bulletin predicts that draftees will be found to be healthier, better developed and with a lower incidence of impairments than the draftees of 1917-18, the result of public and private health programs in operation since the World war. Health statistics generally have shown an upward trend in the last 20 years, and there is no reason to doubt that the same improvement will be revealed in the physical fitness of the young men who have come to maturity during the same period.

At the same time it is true that many thousands of young Americans are potentially, rather than actually, fine physical specimens. That is to say, a vast number of the country's young men never have developed their physical resources. They have taken insufficient exercise; they have not cared for themselves properly; they are alternately undernourished and overnourished; they have tolerated remediable defects. Many will benefit directly from the interest in their physical well-being that is developed by their role in national defense; many more will benefit indirectly. For the first time since the World war, American manpower is challenged to develop its full potentialities.

BALKAN BACKBONE

Whether the rout of the breast-beating legions of Mussolini by the Greeks is going to be the turning point of the war, or whether Greece will prove to be another Finland depends on how much Balkan backbone is developed in the near future, particularly in Yugoslavia.

If Yugoslavia stiffens and refuses to yield to Germany, which can go to Italy's assistance only by crossing Yugoslavian territory, Germany will be in serious trouble. Nazi alternatives then will be to let Italy extricate itself, or to spread the war in the Balkans. Any Nazi attempt to attack Greece directly via Bulgaria would, Turkey warns, bring war in that sector, too. In that event, Russian interests would be involved.

What it all adds up to is a problem in the distribution of military strength, which was Napoleon Bonaparte's nemesis when he tried to conquer Europe. Should the Balkans flame into war, Nazi forces would have to be distributed from the arctic circle to the Mediterranean. The drive against Great Britain would be weakened. The food problem, already troublesome, would become worse. Germany would have repeated its fatal mistake of the World war—a division of its striking power.

Greece has revealed the vulnerable point in the totalitarian bid for supremacy—the southeast front.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, December 10

JUDGING by the prevailing lunar aspects this day may prove that the wisest course to pursue is "on your own," since any sort of cooperation or teamwork seems to be under adverse and unpromising planetary influence. All sorts of group action, political, fraternal or social had best be deferred, and even those in places of influence and authority may be difficult to convince of merit.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which their own efficiency, force or character, determination and independence may be factors for success rather than the trusting to others for support or cooperation. There may be discouragement from political, organization, fraternal or any sort of group affiliation.

A child born on this day although having much deep-seated ability and hidden sources of inspiration and effort, yet may be thwarted by want of endorsement or approbation from superiors, elders or influential groups. It should be trained to work alone on its individual resources.

Years Preceding Manhood

Trying Ones For the Boy, Says Clendening

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A wholesome tone pervades the little book "A Boy Grows Up," by Harry C. McKown and Marjorie LeBron (published by Whiteley House, New York). It is a companion volume to "A Girl Grows Up," by Ruth Fedder, which I have had occasion to recommend to my readers several times.

Boys in the teen ages, which is the period with which this book deals, are quite as shy as girls,

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

even those who put on a false front of being tough, and many suffer agonies during this period of adjustment.

Adjustment, as the authors very sensibly assume, means first adjustment to yourself—and in the teen age every year is different; then adjustment to your family; then to your neighbors; and then to teachers, fellow-students or workers, and the world at large.

Getting off on the right foot in this adventure of growing from boy to man consists, first, of living fully and successfully the life of a boy and then of moving straight ahead, step by step, from boy associations, and activities to those of a man's world. If, as a boy, you can learn to get along with all kinds of people, fit yourself into groups of various sizes and purposes and acquire a clear picture of life around you, you have the surest possible start to moving successfully into the more complicated life of a man.

Mental and Physical Health

In the process, consideration must be made for both mental and physical health, and the authors of this manual pay attention to both. Under mental health, hobbies and work are stressed as methods of learning your place in the world and your relation to your environment.

Several pages are devoted to lists of recent books on skills, hobbies, and special interests. These include camping and woodcraft; knots, ties and splices; shelters and shanties; building things; stamps and coins; cooking and candy making; camp grub; dramatics; drawing, sketching; magic, card tricks, stunts, ventriloquism; gardening; handicrafts of all kinds—such as woodwork, miniature ship building, tin craft; beaten metal work; fun with boxes, tin can craft, Indian craft, plywood, leatherwork, whittling, model airplanes; music; photography; radio and other electrical work; raising pets; science—astronomy, geology, pond life, botany, insects, chemistry, aquariums, birds, turtles, minerals; sports—horseback riding, canoeing and newspaper writing (which I may say in conclusion I am surprised to find is a hobby). Quite a list. There must be something of interest to everyone. Under physical health a good section is devoted to food for the growing boy, emphasizing his need for plenty of it. "Many a high school boy would like to eat six meals a day, if he is skinny or excitable, it may be the best thing he can do." Mamas and "fodds that you can prepare yourself" are described. Work, exercise, sleep, recreation and the new maturity are topics that are discussed in a sensible way.

Questions and Answers
J. A. W., Detroit, Mich. — "At what age is the menopause usually fully completed?"

Answer—There is wide variation in different women for onset and completion of the menopause. In American women of former generations it occurred at an earlier age than at present. Healthy women of today usually do not enter the menopause until the forty-sixth to forty-seventh year. In a considerable percentage not until the fiftieth year. The duration is from six months to three years.

OUR READERS

IN DEFENSE OF SOLDIERS

Editor, The News:

The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, organized for "the protection of the home, and the abolition of the liquor traffic," calls upon the citizens of our country to defend the young men now called to the defense of the nation from alcohol—an enemy which will undermine their health, their physical strength, their mental faculties, their efficiency and thus unfit them for the task to which they are called and which they gladly assume.

These young men, many scarcely more than boys, come in large numbers from homes where high moral and religious standards are held; where safeguards for clean living are maintained. Alcohol in smallest quantities affects the brain and hence, skill and mental acumen are impaired. These qualities are more highly important today in a defense program than ever before. The man who pilots the plane, the man who operates the anti-aircraft gun, the man who gives the orders must be mentally alert, with a brain not dulled by alcohol.

One of the first effects of even small quantities of alcoholic liquors is to loosen the tongue and now at a time when fifth columnists and spies from other countries are seeking to gain military information which would harm our country, it is highly important that no alcohol be allowed to be served to our men.

The fall of the French republic is the present warning to us. The official report of the council of ministers of the Vichy government ascribes its fall to the use of liquor by the men in the army during the inactive months of the past winter. The council reported that in one hospital alone during January, 1940, there were 814 cases of delirium tremens. On the other hand Germany declares that to conquer the world their army must abstain from alcohol. If this is true, abstinence from alcohol is necessary for the defense of the world. The fine legislation which protected the American army in 1917-18 has been repealed. The distillers, the brewers and vintners now have a free field in the main.

For the protection of our country, the defense of our institutions and the preservation of the lives of our people, one of the most important measure to be taken is to protect the men in uniform from the use of alcoholic liquors.

We call upon all patriots, all who earnestly wish to see the United States protect its citizenry, to unite in an effort to secure legislation and the issuance of regulations now possible to secure the accomplishment of the purpose for which our men have been called to service—the defense of this country from foreign aggression.

Some folks still can't believe their eyes

GOING over Buick dealers' reports on our 1941 models, we find an unusual thing happening.

Time and again cars come in for the usual inspections with an extra note of instructions—"Please check the gas gauge needle."

Even after hundreds of miles, people mistrust their eyes when they see its snail-like pace from the Full mark toward Empty—they don't see how it's possible for a car as big as Buick to go so far on so little.

But it does—and for good reasons.

The whole FIREBALL engine was designed and built to get the most good out of modern gasolines.

And the simple secret of Compound Carburetion is that it keeps your engine running on its most frugal diet for all normal driving—and provides full feed only when you need, want and call for the lift of extra wallop.

Meantime even the gears are helping save money—for the regular high gear in a Buick gives you the economy of the so-called "gas-saving" top speeds you hear about.

The big thing is, of course, that this is no small car that's setting these economy figures. There are all the room, size, impressiveness, comfort and downright thrilling performance you expect from a Buick.

So it isn't because the needle's out of kilter that it goes down so slowly. It's simply because it's in a FIREBALL Buick.

"TRIAL WITHOUT JURY"

By JAMES RONALD

SYNOPSIS
Stephen Osborne, at 50, is facing a serious problem indeed when he loses his office job after many years of employment. He has a wife and five children and scant savings. Leaving his city office with leaden feet to walk to his suburban bus, he thinks of his wealthy half-sister, Octavia, who has sternly disapproved of his marriage ever since it took place, twenty-four years ago. It would be hard—very hard—to appeal to her for help.

CHAPTER TWO
To go home before his usual time would call for an explanation, so until five-fifteen Stephen continued to walk the streets and then he turned his steps in the direction of the bus station. Half a block from it he ran into George Bramwell, a stout, red-faced man with whom he sometimes shared a seat. Bramwell greeted Stephen with the hearty enthusiasm with which he greeted most acquaintances, which meant—precisely nothing.

"Hello, Osborne! You look terrible! Indigestion, eh? Let me tip you off to a good thing I've discovered...."

A bus was about to pull out and Stephen quickened his steps to catch it, but Bramwell drew him back.

"Let that one go. There'll be another in a few minutes. That's better sitting in the front seat. He's on his uppers. His agency failed a year ago and he hasn't earned a dime since. He'd have had some hard luck story to tell us if we'd got in with him—and I'd have been alone with him after you got out a Lakeland. They tell me he's touched every friend he has in the world, but he won't get a chance to touch Uncle George in a hurry."

I wonder if you would be so pleased to have my company, thought Stephen, if you knew that this afternoon I lost my job. When the next bus drew in, he boarded it and walked to a rear seat with Bramwell at his heels. Stephen opened his evening newspaper in the hope that this move would silence his companion—but it didn't. "Sad affair, that suicide in Blaine street," said Bramwell, stabbing the front page of Stephen's paper with a stubby forefinger. "Read about it in an early edition. Poor devil—lost his job—tried to find another for a solid six months—over fifty—alone in the world—"

"Poor devil, indeed!" interrupted Stephen.

There, but for the grace of God—But he had Octavia to turn to. Even if she failed him, he still had Edith and the children. No matter what happened, life would be worth living while he had them.

"He wouldn't have done it if he hadn't been alone," Stephen said. "A married man has to go on living for the sake of his family."

George Bramwell bit the end of a fat cigar and struck a match. He leaned back, exuding prosperity and self satisfaction.

"That's all you know," he retorted cheerfully, blowing a ragged smoke ring. "There was a case not so long ago; you must have read about it: fellow in Detroit—forty-five years old—wife and family—two little boys and a girl of fourteen—business failed—tried to gether, lived there and it was general a job—tried for two years and couldn't—"

"Dorothy and Ted Fleming," said young Peter. "They're up to something!"

Bramwell stared. What on earth had got into Osborne? His little eyes narrowed.... The fellow did look worried. Money troubles, perhaps. Maybe his job wasn't as secure as it might be. Whose was these days? He would have to keep an eye on him. He had troubles enough of his own.... With an air of offended dignity, Bramwell moved to another seat and opened wide a newspaper.

There was silence while the bus moved through the factory district and blocks of shabby frame houses that skirted it, and into the open country. When it halted at a fountain in the middle of a suburban village, Stephen rose and walked to the door.

"Good night," he said, but Bramwell did not answer.

Stephen squared his shoulders as he walked up the village main street. He looked about him and his eyes softened. It was such a lovely little place.

Filling his lungs with the live air, Stephen stepped out briskly. Lakeland straggles along what used to be a country road and the back garden of almost every dwelling looks over open fields. The fading sunlight shone on something that sparkled in a window of one of the rose-brick houses. Stephen smiled. Miss Whipple, a middle-aged spinster—business failed—tried to gether, lived there and it was general knowledge that she used a telescope. She filled the function of a village newspaper far more spicily than a newspaper would have dared. There were few sunny days when the gleam of her telescope could not be seen at the window of one of her upper rooms.

The road bent sharply where the rose-brick houses ended. Round the bend Stephen came upon a sturdy boy of twelve, kicking an old football from side to side of the road. The boy had fair hair, a cheerful sunburned face, friendly blue eyes, a short nose with a slight tippit and a mouth that smiled readily. When he saw Stephen the smile grew on his lips and he ran back to meet him.

"Well, Peter," said Stephen.

"Well, Dad."

"Had a good day?"

"Ewell. We played baseball most of the afternoon then went in swimming."

Peter picked up the ball and they walked on together.

"Where's Mimi?" asked Stephen.

"Cut in that old tin can of his. I asked him to take me, but he said I'd be in the way."

Then they saw a girl and a young man standing in the roadway a hundred yards ahead.

"Dorothy and Ted Fleming," remarked Peter. "They're up to something."

Stephen was inclined to agree. Something told him that this was not chance encounter. There was a guilty air about the waiting couple which suggested an ambush. He had never before noticed how really beautiful Dorothy had become. She had always been pretty, but now she was almost as rare as lovely as Edith had been at her age.

GOOD EYESIGHT

It's a gift that we, too often, take for granted... and we do not take care of until it's too late. Very often neglected eye conditions bring very poor eyesight in later years and in some cases even blindness. It is a pity, as these conditions can be avoided by periodic examinations by a reliable optometrist. Surely that is a small price to pay for such a valuable gift.

DINERS LIKE METZGER MENU

"Dine at the Metzger hotel restaurant if you would enjoy the best" is the tip given by many residents of this district and by travelers to their friends when talking of eating places in Salem.

Sunday and evening dinners are a specialty here. To get the full enjoyment of good meals many dine away from home frequently, and their choice invariably is the Metzger hotel restaurant.

Perfect menus invite hundreds from this area to make it a practice of eating Sunday dinners here. Another large group of people who frequently motor through the city know the restaurant as the home of good meals and tasty lunches.

Dining Out Popular

Dining away from home has been growing in scope in this area, and the fine food and hospitality at the Metzger are combined to extend that plan. Wearisome work in the kitchen on Sundays is frequently eliminated for many housewives since they and members of their families learned of the delicious food and reasonable prices to be found at the Metzger.

MANY ACTIVE IN REMODELING

Damascus Lumber Co. Is Busy On Interior Work At Present

The Damascus Lumber company at Damascus has been receiving an exceptional number of calls for ideas on remodeling, and their planning and drafting departments find it necessary to work extra hours.

Modernizing kitchens, planning book shelves, mantels, providing cupboards for various parts of the home, and rearranging rooms, and making over parts of the basement and attic seem to be the vogue with many home owners.

The management at the Damascus Lumber company point out that now is the ideal time to plan the interior changes to be made, not that outside work cannot be done, such as a new porch or a gable added, but certainly inside work can progress faster without any interruptions. Insulating and installing storm doors and windows is another activity. Improvements of this kind are especially practical. The original cost is soon overcome by the savings in fuel bills. The health of the family is protected because it eliminates the drafts. Dust and other dirt cannot enter the home where windows and doors have properly fitted storm sash.

Rhythmets Come To Cocktail Room As Entertainers

Direct from Mansfield where they have been entertaining the past few weeks at the principal hotel night club comes the "Rhythmets," four lovely, versatile and attractive girls to entertain you at the Silver Cocktail room in the Metzger hotel.

Joann Price specializes in sophisticated vocals and plays the guitar. The drummer, Valois Turner, does those clever and cute songs as well as tap dance routines. Mildred Manning, the leader, has that something that makes you want to come back night after night.

The management at the Metzger hotel has been checking up on entertainment the past few weeks and believes, in offering this program to lovers of music, he has a group that will please the most skeptical.

BUYING TREND POINTS TO 8'S

Sedan Coupes are Proving Popular, Says Pontiac Executive

Sales of new cars have progressed far enough into the 1941 model year so that a reasonably accurate estimate of public taste now is possible, says D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager of Pontiac Motor division.

"There is no doubt of the fact that Pontiac's advanced aerodynamic Streamliner Torpedo models have captured the public eye," says Bathrick. "This is particularly true of the two-door, sedan coupe models."

"Streamliner models now account for 40 per cent of our total sales, and of these Streamliners some 70 per cent are the new type sedan coupes. Sedan coupes take the place of the sport coupes of former years and as an indication of how much more they appeal to the public than the sport coupe, 37.7 per cent of our total production for the first five months of the 1941 model year will be of this body type.

"This compares to 15.1 per cent of the total sales of 1940 which was represented by sport coupes, a gain of 147 per cent in popularity brought about by the increased appeal which has resulted from improved appearance and greater room."

"Our ability to provide all models with either six or eight cylinder engines at a price of only $25 more for the eight, has also been justified by the records. During the 1940 model year 24.8 per cent of our sales were eight cylinder models."

"Already the percentage of eight in our 1941 model year has gone up to 35 per cent, an increase of 41 per cent in eight cylinder buying. Sixty per cent of the Custom Torpedoes and 40 per cent of the Streamliner Torpedoes are eight's."

He declared the students as a whole needed more dates to maintain mental health. He declared social affairs of the stag and exclusively co-ed type.

Coast to Coast Without Shifting Gears!

LOS ANGELES—Across the continent, coast to coast—without a single clutch or gearshift operation! That's the driving record just established at Los Angeles (top photo) with the arrival of Miss Joselyn Reynolds (leaning against car) and Miss Virginia Campbell (smiling out of car window) in a new DeSoto, equipped with one of 1941's automotive advances—fluid drive and simplimatic transmission.

Their car, which officially started its trans-continental journey at City Hall, New York City, carried on its top a streamlined counting device, dials of which were coupled to gearshift lever and clutch (see photo left, bottom). While amateur driver Joselyn Reynolds looked on, the counter was officially seated by Alex Pisciotto, director of New York City's Bureau of Weights and Measures. After the start, the car's gearshift and clutch were untouched throughout the 3,070-mile cross-continent jaunt.

It was found the fluid drive DeSoto's advanced feature actually saved the two girl-drivers 8,257 driving motions. They and their 1941 car were accompanied on the long drive across America by a standard transmission car, also equipped with a sealed automatic counting device attached to its clutch and gearshift. The standard transmission car's counter showed 8,259 manual operations on the same trip—4,097 of which were gearshifts and 4,162 clutch operations. By contrast, the counter on the fluid drive DeSoto showed only the single gearshift and the single clutch operation required to put the car into gear at the starting point in New York City. Inset photo (right bottom) shows the two cars coursing along the new Pennsylvania Turnpike, stretching 160 miles from Harrisburg to Pittsburgh.

The Harris garage on W. State st. by actual tests find that gearshift operation is a thing of the past. They have tried out their demonstrators on every hill in this section, surely a feature many will appreciate, particularly women drivers.

Harmon Elected Year's Outstanding Male Star; Greenberg Weak Second

30 of 71 Voters Give Michigan Flash First Place; Detroit Slugger Gets Eleven Firsts; Walters Places Third

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Football's mounting popularity is reflected in the overwhelming margin by which Tommy Harmon, Michigan's great back, has been voted the outstanding male athlete of 1940 by sports experts participating in the annual Associated Press poll.

Thirty of the 71 press box seers who sent in their ballots named the Wolverine Wow their No. 1 choice for his personal exploits in leading his team to a once-defeated season and for breaking Red Grange's record for scoring over a three-year period.

Hank Greenberg, Detroit's slugging outfielder, ran a weak second with 11 first-place votes and a total of 57 points to Harmon's 141. Points are counted on a basis of three for a first choice, two for second choice and one for third.

Walters Third
Bucky Walters, Cincinnati pitcher, placed third with 36 points, including six firsts, while Bobby Feller, Cleveland fireballer, gained fourth with 31 points and seven firsts.

This is the second straight year that a football hero has grabbed the brass ring. Last year it was Niles Kinnick of Iowa.

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who was the people's choice last year, also dropped to seventh this time. He didn't receive a single No. 1 vote, whereas Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati's veteran catcher and world series hero, got 4.

Of them all, Bucky Walters held his following best. The Reds' mound ace climbed from fourth last year to third this time and got the same number of first place votes—six. At that rate, Bucky can count on reaching the top in 1942, providing his wing hold out.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Say, there wasn't another player rebellion (hushed up before it hit the papers) in the majors last season, was there? . . . all right, we're only asking . . . when Tommy Harmon turned pro, he didn't fool around about it—picked up $3,200 in radio broadcasts, personal appearance, in last two weeks . . . the boys and girls at the Washington massacre yesterday saw what probably will turn out to be the finest old feud in all football history.

Resign, Why?

We're asking you—why on earth should Judge Landis resign? . . . every picture we saw of him at the Atlanta meeting indicated his honor was having himself a fine old time . . . one shot pictured him wielding a big (drum) stick at the banquet board . . . in another, he was entirely surrounded by easy-to-look-at blondes.

Today's Guest Star

Tom Sweeney, Worcester (Mass.) Gazette: "The more we ponder the more we are convinced that those 50 plays Coach Frank Leahy is supposed to have given the Eagles must have included the complete works of Shakespeare and Eugene O'Neill."

Sports Bulletin Board

They say the recently dimonized Abe Simon really looked good trimming Roscoe Toles' Red Barber, the broadcaster, did h's usual top job on the Bears vs. Redskins. Everybody knew what was going on all the time . . . Ernest Mills, Auburn guard, who wears No. 28, started his 28th (and last) varsity game against Villanova Saturday.

Strange Story

Sound screwy, but the big reason Mickey Owen is with the Dodgers is that he socked Leo Durocher on the bugle in that riot in Brooklyn last June . . . both Durocher and Larry MacPhail, like fighters, so when they see a good one around they try to get him for their side . . . And so we say to Mickey Owen, Brother, that was nifty goin'.

Time Marches On

1940 brought—two Thanksgivings . . . the third term . . . the fifth down.

CANFIELD WINS 4TH STRAIGHT

McPhee and Miskell Star In 34-27 Victory Over Springfield

CANFIELD, Dec. 9.—Heavy scoring by Chester McPhee and brilliant defensive play by Ray Miskell featured as Canfield High chalked up its fourth consecutive victory here Saturday night, trimming Springfield Township 34-27, in a Mahoning County "B" League game.

Canfield led all the way, 7-6, 16-10, and 24-18 at the quarters with McPhee making 17 points and Cummings nine. Coach Guy's passers showed their skill after the initial period. Wire and Huda starred for Springfield.

Springfield took the reserve game 17-12.

BEARS TOPPLE PRO MARKS IN 73-0 MASSACRE

Redskins No Match For Chicago Power; Eleven Footballs Lost

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Chicago's powerful Bears today rule the football roost, thanks to a record-breaking 73-0 rout of the Washington Redskins in the annual playoff for the National league title.

The big Bears, opening up with a touchdown in the first 59 seconds of the game, poured it on with a vengeance as 36,034 spectators, who paid more than $100,000, looked on in amazement.

Early in the first half the playoff mark of 30 points, made by the New York Giants against the Bears in 1934, was tossed into the discard and an all-time figure of 64 points compiled by Philadelphia against Cincinnati was wiped out later. Not content, the lusty Bears lambasted other records.

Eleven Footballs Lost

Even the record for lost footballs was broken. When they were kicked into the stands in pro football they do not come back and after the Bears had scored nine times, 11 footballs had been removed from circulation. Only a dozen balls were on hand, so after the two final counters, the Bears tried passes for the extra points, getting a 50-50 break in this department.

Another record exceeded was on the financial side. The cash contributions' outlay of a net $102,280 contributed to a players' pool of $54,562.80, providing $873.99 for each winning player, and $628.25 for each loser.

State Grange Chief Optimistic On Eve of Convention

was laid before the resolutions committee of the federation's 22nd annual convention opening today.
Officials said the resolutions committee planned to invite Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, AAA Administrator R. M. Evans and other agriculture department officials to discuss ways of decentralizing administration of farm programs. Wickard and Evans are scheduled to address the convention.

Cites Ways of Saving
The Oag report, which was being withheld from publication for the time being, was said by officials to show that as many as seven different agriculture department agencies, each with its own staff, were administering programs which had virtually identical objectives. The report, it was said, cited ways of saving "several million dollars" annually in administrative expenses.

Members said the resolutions committee might ask the federation to go on record for legislation which would give the states, through land grant universities, colleges, greater responsibility in conduct of farm programs.

Some federation delegates, led by Edward A. O'Neil, president, favored a revision in present farm laws to permit the government to make loans on basic commodities at levels which would peg prices at so-called "parity" levels. Opposition to such a plan has been voiced in administration farm circles, where reenactment of processing taxes for raising farm subsidies is favored.

Audiences who have watched a talented youngster grow into a lovely young star will see the final step in that transition when they see Judy Garland playing her first adult role, a dual one, by the way, in "Little Nellie Kelly" at the State tonight and Tuesday.

The freckle-faced youngster whose amazing voice and personality stole the spotlight in a number of minor roles and then brought her stardom with "Babes in Arms", plays the part of an Irish girl who comes to this country in the middle of the nineties and later, as that girl's young daughter, George Murphy has the part of both husband and father.

Charles Winniger is the lovable, shiftless grandfather of "Little Nellie" whose aversion to work is the only thing at which he ever works. Others in the cast are young Douglas McPhail, singer who appeared with Judy in "Babes in Arms", Arthur Shields, Rita Page and Forrester Harvey.

Miss Garland definitely establishes herself as both an actress, a delightful comedienne and a singer. An indifferent story becomes a hit in her hands, and the rollicking Irish songs she sings in the film are handled in her inimitable style.

Yes, call me "Sandy" Claus if you like, but a thrifty idea is worth considering—even at Christmas time... Get your garments Miracleaned for the Holidays and they will seem like "new". Miracleaning starts right by thoroughly ridding the fabric of every trace of soil, then it restores "new" texture to give the fabric body and life—and last there is the "fashion" finish. Miracleaning is a better cleaning, but it is long-run economy. Just try it!
